About the speaker: Dr Shivani Patel is an endocrinologist at St Vincents Hospital Sydney and recently completed her PhD in autoantibody negative type 1 diabetes through the Garvan Institute of Medical Research and UNSW. She is now a post-doctoral research scientist at the Victor Chang Cardiac Research Institute and holds a Conjoint Senior Lecturer appointment through UNSW. She has a keen interest in atypical forms of diabetes.

Brief outline of seminar content: Dr Patel will be presenting the results from her PhD which aimed to understand the clinical, immunogenetic and metabolic phenotype of autoantibody negative type 1 diabetes. This work was published earlier this year in Diabetologia.
